

A woman joins a monthly sex club as a member, wanting to live out her fantasies and not knowing what to expect goes for the first month and is instantly taken by an escort working the event. So much so that she lets that Escort touch her, which is more than she planned on for her first visit.

A woman needs money, so when her friends suggest she work at a club they attend as members, she agrees to try it once. That's when she sees her and it doesn't feel like work at all.

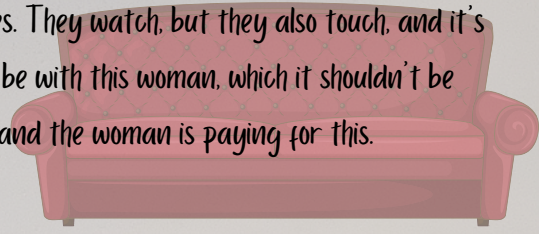

She goes back for the next month, hoping to find the escort. When she does, they go to a room all by themselves and explore once more.

She requests a private night with the escort for the next event, but is told that she won't be in attendance. It's a missed opportunity.

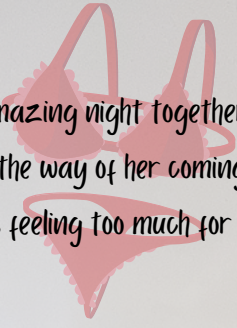

While they take a break, she suggests that they watch her friends and the member agrees. They watch, but they also touch, and it's intoxicating for her to be with this woman, which it shouldn't be because she's working and the woman is paying for this.

She still attends the event and is with two other women. She touches them, but doesn't let them touch her because it feels strange to let someone else touch her when she wants the escort to touch her instead.

They have an amazing night together the following month, which the escort needs after life got in the way of her coming the previous month, but she's beginning to worry that she's feeling too much for a woman she doesn't even know.

The next month, the member gets them a private penthouse suite and they enjoy each other, but it's more date than sex only.

The following month, they spend time getting to know each other and make love. It's moving beyond escort and member now. It's getting real.

The next time, there's jealousy between them, so after some time alone, they go to the escort's friend's room where they claim each other.

When they next meet, they have a foursome with the escort's friends, and it's amazing for both of them.

Following that night, when they meet next, they decide that it's a date. They're going to try to see what this can be between them.

The final event of the year, they enjoy one another and their friends, but it's more than just sex. They're dating and happy, and know that's it's real between them.

The following year, the member attends the event and lets another woman touch her, but not get her off. When she goes upstairs, the escort is behind her, having enjoyed watching downstairs, but now wanting to touch. It's been one year and she's no longer an escort. She's a member and joins the woman she's engaged to at these events when the mood strikes, which is does... once a month.

Honor Wrenley sees that a new provocative art show is in town. The theme of the show is people having sex, and Honor isn't normally the type of person to check something like that out, but she can't resist the temptation.

Honor returns to the show for a second time and Silver is there, asking to touch her. Honor hasn't ever been with a woman and doesn't understand why Silver wants her, but she wants her too.

Silver Kincade is the one who put the whole show together and when she sees Honor that first night, she can't help it. She has to walk up and talk to her.

When she does, she can't resist the pull she feels and she can tell that Honor feels it too, but Honor is a bit skittish and runs.

Silver sends Honor a ticket for another night, hoping she'll show, and when Honor does, Silver is right behind her, asking if it's okay. Honor says it is.

They disappear into Silver's office and have an "explosive" experience. After, Honor gets worried she's done something wrong and leaves.

Honor returns to find Silver in the show this time and it's a major turn on, but she flees before they can talk. When she shows again the next night, Silver chases after her.

Silver is in the show again. This time Honor watches and it's a big turn on for both of them.

They go to a diner and talk, getting to know each other and when Silver has a chance at a sure thing with another woman, she can't. She feels like she needs to talk to Honor first.

They go talk and get to know each other a little more.

They fall asleep together and it's nice, but Honor still isn't sure that this is what she wants. Honor goes to the show and Silver finds her. They have sex, and this is turning into more than just that for both of them.

Love is not finding someone to live with, it's finding someone you can't live without.

Honor's never done anything like this before, but she meets another woman and sleeps with her. She begins to think that this is part of who she is. After an issue with an event that Honor is hosting, she gets more comfortable with the idea of this being her life.

Honor has a date with a woman and Silver isn't a fan of this, but they're not dating or exclusive, so she can't say anything. They continue to talk, meet up for sex, and Honor explores this part of herself until they decide that they do want to date.

It will be a different arrangement for them. They're together, but they can sleep with whomever they want as long as they communicate and follow the rules they set for their relationship.

She and Silver are in love and they find a woman in a club to sleep with together. Later, they sleep with Silver's friends as well and it's as if they've found the exact right person that they were supposed to find all along.

Later, Honor appears in the show with Silver and asks her to marry her.
